

Claims

What is claimed is:

1. An assembly for securing and electrically connecting an electronic component, comprising 5 an electronic component with resilient interconnection elements, a substrate,
capture pads on the substrate, configured to mate with the resilient interconnection elements of the electronic component, and 10 a housing connected to secure the electronic component to the substrate.